USE AND ABUSE OF STATE AUTOMOBILES

SENATOR ASKS EXPLANATION OF ARRESTS IN OFFICIAL CARS

Investigation Will Cover the Near Fatal Accident at Springfield and Disclosure of Bootlegging From Welfare Department Garage—Condemns Use of Convicts.

State Senator J. Leroy Miller, of Butler county, Wednesday, February 18, introduced a resolution providing for an investigation by five senators of the "use and abuse of state automobiles, which was adopted and the following were appointed as members of such committee: Senator Miller, chairman; and Senators W. A. Clark of Champaign county; J. R. Hopley, of Crawford; Claron L. Shafer of Van Wert, and G. M. Kinler, of Preble.

The resolution recited that the governor's son was jailed recently for speeding in a state-owned car, that a state owned car carrying liquor was recently involved in a near fatal accident at Springfield and that paroled convicts have been driving state-owned cars.

The recent disclosure of bootlegging from the State Welfare Department garage will be looked into also, Senator Miller says.

He further alleges that the governor's use of convicts as personal servants in the governor's mansion is a bad example and has a bad influence on other household servants.

Adoption of the resolution was vigorously opposed by Senator W. F. Garver, of Holmes county, but only two votes were recorded against it.

Police Judge L. L. Miller, of Springfield, Wednesday disposed of the case against the three men who figured in an auto accident there Sunday night, February 15, in which a car, owned by the state, collided with a car driven by Elden Prout, of Mechanicsburg.

Sam Williams, Columbus, garage manager, was returned to Ohio penitentiary at Columbus for violating his parole. Williams was charged with illegal possession and transportation of liquor.

Frank Ross, ex-cello, Butler county, plead guilty to possessing liquor and was fined $250 and an additional $5 for being intoxicated. A charge of illegal transportation was withdrawn.

Milton Seiffert 21, Columbus, was sentenced to the Clark county jail for 60 days and fined $100 on a reckless driving charge. He will be tried February 25, on an illegal possession charge.

It was brought out at the trial that Ross and Williams paid Seiffert to drive them from Columbus to Middletown. Seiffert said the men planned to return the car to Williams' garage so that it could be returned to the state early Monday. The car was taken to Williams for repair February 11.

BASKETBALL NOTES.

When circumstances over which he had no control made it necessary to postpone the Chillicothe game which was scheduled for tonight, Manager Lynch immediately took steps to secure a provisional team which would be good enough to assure the club's patrons the snappy hard fought battle they have learned to expect whenever the C. A. C. locks horns with an opponent. This was hard to do on such short notice, but luckily he was fortunate enough to arrange a return date with the McArthur Athletic club, the team which defeated the C. A. C. two weeks ago.

Come to this game tonight. Tell your friends about it, and watch the home team regain their laurels. For the early birds there will be a preliminary game beginning at 7:15.

GENERAL CLEAN-UP THREATENED.

Columbus, Feb. 17.—Ohioans employed in the prohibition enforcement unit are on the nervous edge. Major Roy A. Haynes, of Hillsboro, is reported as slated for retirement as prohibition commissioner just as soon as President Coolidge is able to decide upon his successor. The decapitation deed will not be accomplished, however, without vigorous protests from Senator Frank B. Willis and Wayne B. Wheeler, Anti-Saloon League strategists, who were largely responsible for Haynes' appointment nearly four years ago.

Willis and Wheeler have gone to the White House recently in Haynes' behalf. If there have been failures and blunders in prohibition enforcement, Haynes is not responsible, they hold. They assert that in the face of tremendous odds and handicapped by lack of governmental co-operation, he deserves great credit for what has been accomplished. The failure and blunders have been in spite of, not because of him.

If Haynes goes, it is likely that some of the other Ohioans under him in the prohibition unit will go, too. Among these are James E. Jones of Youngstown, assistant commissioner; Charles J. Howard of Barnesville, attorney, and William Walker, of Hillsboro, general agent.

Thus far Ohio has monopolized the prohibition commissionership. "Hop-est John" Kramer of Mansfield, Democrat, was the first to hold it, by appointment of President Wilson. Haynes succeeded him. Haynes' successor is not apt to be an Ohio man.

BELMONT COUNTY LEGHORNS

Win in Highest Production of Eggs in December—Club Members Keep Account.

Keeping daily tab on their hens to determine the number of eggs laid during the year is now the job of 150 members of boys' and girls' poultry clubs in 29 Ohio counties.

Calendars containing spaces for each day's production were sent by the Ohio State university to these boys and girls after they had agreed to keep egg records for a year. The daily production is entered on the card; at the end of the month this is summarized and sent in to the state leader of junior clubs at the university. If production is below standard, suggestions on feeding to increase egg production will be sent the club member.

One hundred and fifty members own 16,509 birds. Of these, 9834 are pullets and 6675 hens. For December, the first month of the tally, the average production per pullet was 4.9 eggs per hen, 2.9. Standard production for this month is 8 eggs a bird.

The 10 highest flocks include four Rhode Island reds, three White Leghorns and one each of white Rocks, white Wyandottes and black Giants.

The highest producing flock, 26 white Leghorns with an average production for December of 16.2 eggs, is owned by Edward Negus of Belmont county. Highest producers in other breeds are: Glen Halbert, Wood county, 30 white Rocks, 13 eggs apiece; Lillian Marwin, Fayette county, 123 white Wyandottes, 12.6 eggs; Floyd Diley, Fairfield county, 15 black Giants, 12.2 eggs; Dorothy Heis, Hamilton county, 75 Rhode Island reds, 12.1 eggs; Charles Gordon, Champaign county, 5 patridge, Wyandottes, 7 eggs; and Clinton Starbuck, Belmont county 120 Anconas, 3.26 eggs apiece.

BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE.

A large barn and corn crib on the farm of David M. Snyder near the home of Louis Kuhn on the Judas road was destroyed by fire at noon Wednesday.

An auto owned by Charles Mettler, a tenant on the farm and some baled straw stored in the barn was destroyed.

ELEVATOR SCORCHED.

The Crites elevator at Kinderhook was discovered on fire at an early hour this morning. The blaze was extinguished before much damage was done.

QUEEN ESTHER CLUB.

The Queen Esther club of the M. E. church held a delightful session Tuesday evening, February 17, at the church. Seventeen members responded to roll call with the names of famous persons born in February. Two visitors and two new members were received.

The business session was pleasing since the $25 pledge was reported as raised. Arrangements were made for the entertainment of the Queen Esther club of Chillicothe, who will be Circleville's guest on St. Patrick's day and they will put on the program.

After repeating the 23d psalm, in concert, a piano solo by Miss Aubrey Wichenseimer was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Allen gave a missionary sketch that was followed by a vocal solo by Dorothy Denman.

Discussion of the topic and benediction was followed by the Valentine box, from which each received many beautiful cards. Dainty refreshments of ice cream, macaroons, valentine hearts, cakes, candy and cocoa was served by Misses Constance Himrod and Bertha Betz. During the social hour games and music added to the entertainment.

UNDERWENT OPERATION.

Montford Kirkwood Jr., seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Montford Kirkwood, of East High street, was operated on Wednesday morning for the removal of adenoids and tonsils. The operation was performed by Dr. G. C. Stewart, assisted by Dr. McPeak, of Columbus.

GETS DEATH THREATS

Mark L. Herron, chief criminal deputy and head "bootleg" prosecutor of the United States attorney's office of Los Angeles, has been marked for death. Admission to this effect was made by federal officials at Los Angeles on the eve of what is expected to be one of the most sensational liquor conspiracy cases ever tried on the Pacific coast, that of the so-called "millionaire" rum ring of Long Beach. Mr. Herron has received a letter threatening his assassination.

SWALLOWS SULPHURIC SOLUTION

Norma Audrey, Two Year Old Child of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Butler in Hospital.

For the second time in ten days, Norma Audrey Butler, two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar N. Butler, 337 East Kossuth street, Columbus, and who was hurt at Circleville February 8, experienced a narrow escape from death Wednesday. She drank a solution of sulphuric acid, used in charging storage batteries. Physicians at Mercy hospital to which she was rushed, expect her recovery. The child was playing about a work bench in the basement of the family home and swallowed the acid, thinking it water.

During a visit at the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, 145 East Town street, this city, a week ago Sunday the child fell upon a nursing bottle, severing an artery in her wrist and lacerating both hands. She is recovering from these injuries.

Mr. Butler, the child's father is a member of the legal division of the state department of industrial relations.

English Lavender and Mint.
The great secret of English lavender and mint lies in the soil—a light, friable, chalky soil, not often found in a climate congenial to both plants, yet essential to a perfect result. Each, in fact, may be grown with a certain measure of success on hill, in marsh-land, or meadow, for both are hardy, and, when well rooted, are nearly impervious to drought and frost.

One of the mysteries still unsolved is that of the sense by which the lower animals become aware of the approach of earthquakes. Birds and rats become alarmed and try to escape. Super-sensitiveness to faint shocks scarcely gives satisfactory explanation, for modern seismographs are very sensitive.

The Magnetic Spell

When ships pass on their way to and from Liverpool, and come to a particular spot in the Mersey, says London Answers, their compasses become agitated in a wholly improper way. Some magnetic spell is laid on them, and the only explanation that has suggested itself is that the iron parts of some ship wrecked there have become magnetized by some shift in the wreck's position joined to the action of waves or currents.

An Unsatisfactory Goal

Let us look our desires squarely in the face. To win riches, to have a certain balance in the bank and a certain rating on the exchange, is a real object, a definite object; but it is a frightfully small object for the devotion of a human life, and a bitterly disappointing reward for the loss of an immortal soul. If wealth is our desired haven, we may be sure that it will not satisfy us when we reach it.—Henry Van Dyke.

HARTMAN THEATER.
x x x x x x x x

Julia Sanderson opens an engagement of one week at the Hartman theater, Columbus, next Monday night, February 23, in a vehicle written by William Le Baron entitled "Moonlight," in which she played New York City for six months and long engagements in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. The producer, L. Lawrence Weber is sending Miss Sanderson on a tour that will take in all the large cities between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and which it is expected will require two years to complete.

"Moonlight" is laid on Long Island, on a millionaire's estate, who is given to making strange wagers. He bets that he can make any couple fall in love by providing proper settings of seclusions poetry, soft lights, moonlight and a wailing violin. The idea is good but it works out with the wrong persons wherein lies the comedy in the play. One New York manager who timed the laughs found one every thirty seconds.

Miss Sanderson is supported by a large and able cast. Chief of the supporting performers is Frank Crumit, well known for his ability to make croony tunes with a guitar or ukulele. Others are Louis Simon, Franker Woods, Miss Sascha Beaumont, Ward Fox, Glen Dale and Miss Helen O'Shea who is called the "Dresden China Doll" because she resembles nothing more than a dainty bit of bric-a-brac.

There never was a Weber show with out a fast stepping, good looking, good singing chorus and "Moonlight" is no exception to the long list of Weber successes in this respect. "The Tiffany Girls" as Mr. Weber has called his chorus are said to be gems of feminine pulchritude.

"Moonlight" is said by all reviewers to be a charming show. Julia Sanderson, of course, is the chief charmer, but there are at least six song bits which help exert that subtle influence known as "charm." These songs half of the number in the show are "Old Man in the Moon" "Say it Again," "On Such a Night," "Forever" and "Honeymoon Blues."

Paris Sports Frock for Day and Evening Wear

This charming sports frock was recently exhibited at the skating gala performance in Paris. It is also seen at all the leading French winter sports resorts.

Accessories Should Be in Harmony With Suit

It is not enough to have one's frock or suit or hat the most becoming to be found and the smartest from a fashion point of view. There are a dozen and one things to be considered before one attains the superlative quality of chic so much to be desired, and even the most trivial accessory has its proper place in the sartorial scheme.

The woman of fashion has always made a point of having each detail of her costume in perfect harmony but it is doubtful if she has ever displayed quite such meticulous care in the choice of her accessories as she does this season.

Sophisticated simplicity is the dominant note of modern fashions and an unwise selection in the matter of bag, gloves or a handkerchief, an ornament that is a bit too much or too little, stockings that are not the correct shade or a scarf that is not appropriate will ruin a costume that in other respects is perfect.

Time was when bags were divided into two types, those for daytime and those to carry in the evening. Today these types are multiplied until there is an appropriate bag for every costume and for every occasion.

For morning shopping there is a commodious affair, square in shape, of leather in whatever color one desires which fastens with a lock and key.

Less utilitarian but essentially practical is an envelope bag of lizard skin or of suede trimmed with bands, or snakeskin.

Exquisite bags of metal brocade have narrow tops of gold and swing from a gold chain, while for evening there are fascinating bags of ostrich.

Kasha Is Combined With Light Long-Haired Furs

A new fashion has suddenly been launched, a mode that is of the greatest distinction and not a little individuality. This is the fashion of wearing kasha in its pale natural tone combined with light long-haired furs.

Paris has taken up this new mode with the greatest enthusiasm and already in this country it promises to achieve a vogue equally great. Nothing more subtle or distinguished has been shown in a long while, and when a touch of black or color is incorporated into the costume it serves to accent the lovely creamy tones of the material.

One of the smartest frocks of natural kasha is laid in fine plaits from shoulder to hem and is belted with a wide belt of red suede. The color is especially interesting as it is the high close collar shown on a number of the latest models. It may be worn turned back, but if one is really smart one will wear it fastened close at the throat.

It is, however, in the ensemble that the vogue for natural colored kasha and light-toned furs finds its most attractive expression. These are extremely new and among the smartest models of the winter season. Frequently there is a bit of dull red, of soft green or of black, with an occasional touch of metal embroidery. In one instance the tunic of black satin is embroidered in gold. Bands of natural wolf blend beautifully with the flattering tones of the material.

Motor Bags Must Be Smart

The bags one carries on a motor trip must be as smart as they are serviceable. For this purpose there are the most stunning bags of leather. They are of all sizes, from the small vanity to a large dressing bag almost as big as a medium-sized suitcase, and are beautifully fitted with all the necessary toilet requisites. Small flat envelope bags are carried with a costume of black or dark blue and add a touch of brilliancy so essential to chic.

"I had an odd experience looking for a book," said a woman. "The clerk said the book was not in stock and she would look up the publisher and send for it. She took up the publisher's directory and began to hunt. The title of the book I asked for began with K but she was turning the pages way over to the Vs. I stood it for a few minutes than I said, 'What's the trouble? Don't you know your alphabet?' 'No, I don't,' she confessed, without a blush, 'they didn't teach it when I went to school. Of course I know all the letters in the alphabet, but I don't know in what order they come.'—Springfield Union.

The Catbird.

I hardly know whether I am more pleased or annoyed by the catbird. Perhaps she is a little too common and her part in the general chorus a little too conspicuous. If you are listening for the note of another bird, she is sure to be prompted to the most loud and protracted singing, drowning all other sounds; if you sit quietly down to observe a favorite or study a newcomer, her curiosity knows no bounds, and you are scanned and ridiculed from every point of observation. Yet I would not miss her; I would only subordinate her a little, make her less conspicuous.—John Burroughs.

Something to Admire

Here is a shoe that is sure to win admiration. It is along will designed lines, made in the best materials, light shades, and gun metals, and is guaranteed to wear well and keep its shape. But this is only one of the many Handsome Models we have in stock that will be popular this season. Come and see them. Made by Munn, Bush & Weldon Shoe Co.

FLORIDA

Builds Huge Fight Arena as Bid For Championship Bout.

New York, Jersey City and other capitals of the prize-fight world face the entry of a new bidder for championship bouts in Jacksonville, Florida, according to Hough Fullerton, writing in this week's issue of Liberty.

"Florida is now figuring upon staging the big championship prize fights at Jacksonville," Fullerton says. "The city is building an arena to seat fifty thousand persons, and the promoters are of the opinion that the fighters will prefer to box in Florida as the receipts from the fights will not be subject to any state income tax. The state law permits boxing, and, according to the boosters, can be amended to meet conditions if the fighters find fault with the present law."

Word to the Wise

Reading in bed or in a reclining position is bad for the eyes. It puts undue strain upon muscles already overtaxed. Don't forget that, sometimes, as in the case of bright's disease, an impairment of eyesight may be the first apparent symptom of disease. Dimming eyesight may often indicate the need of an entire physical examination, as well as the need of consulting a capable oculist and being fitted properly with glasses.

Writer Practised Economy

Pope's celebrated translation of Homer (preserved in the British museum) is written almost entirely on the covers or wrappers of letters, as envelopes were first called. There are also preserved in the British museum, attached to the letters, the envelopes which were used in 1755 and 1760 for the transmission of two important government documents.—Exchange.

Few Man-Eating Sharks

There are numerous species of sharks, only a few of which can be truly regarded as "man-eaters." Natives of the West Indies, the South Sea Islands and other lands frequented by sharks are known to attack and kill sharks with their knives, but it is doubtful if these were the dreaded white sharks or blue sharks, both man-eating species.

And the Moral Is:

A man in a hurry rushed into a bank. Two receiving tellers were busy at their respective windows. Two lines had formed. One line contained three women, the other 18 men. Mr. Man-in-a-Hurry paused and surveyed both lines. He gave a full minute to his survey. Then he joined the line of men.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Cultivate These Habits

Brush your teeth, night and morning. Bathe each day. Keep your fingernails clean. Drink milk, but no coffee or tea. Eat only at meal time. Keep your surroundings clean. Sit straight. Walk right. Play out of doors every day. Eat fruit and vegetables every day. Sleep nine hours with the windows open.—Hygeia.

FARMERS
ROBBING
THE SOIL

Is the Statement Made by
President of the Farmers'
Sugar Company.

"Save the farmers by saving the soil" is the slogan of Charles H. Allen, president of the Farmers Sugar Co., Defiance, Ohio, who will address the Rotary Club, Thursday, February 26th, as the result of arrangements now being made by C. R. Barnhart, chairman of the program committee.

Mr. Allen, who is at the head of 1,200 farmers who are building their own sugar factory at Defiance, Ohio, declares the farmers are in trouble because they have been selling wheat and other crops containing a great part of mineral matter. Selling less wheat, corn and other crops high in mineral elements and producing more milk, butter, eggs, bacon, sugar, wool and other crops that contain very little mineral matter, is the remedy which he will suggest in his talk here.

Because he is himself both a farmer and a business man—operating his own farm in Ohio and at the same time a councillor of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States—Mr. Allen has been greatly in demand as a speaker on the agricultural situation. Those who are arranging his address here were able to secure him because he had already arranged a trip to appear before business and farm organizations in several other cities in this section.

"Just because we inherited a great mass of mineral matter in the shape of soil fertility is no reason why we should pay Europe for hauling it away," says Mr. Allen. "We count production costs and figure we sell wheat at a profit. If we also computed the value of the mineral elements in the wheat, adding this to the production cost, we should find we always sell wheat at a loss."

"The wheat farmer is 'broke' today because he cannot figure soil deposits. He has been a poor banker by growing wheat and other crops that have withdrawn all the mineral deposits. For this reason many sections that once grew 60 bushels of wheat to the acre now will grow only six. That's the principal reason the farmer can't make a profit. What will save him is not extended credit but rotation with sugar beets and other crops that take no mineral fertility from the soil and at the same time, through extensive root systems, make bacteria life active in lower and undeveloped regions of the soil."

In his talk here, Mr. Allen will explain that sugar is chemically nothing but carbon, hydrogen and oxygen as the result of the sun's action on plant leaves. The hydrogen and oxygen come from the rain. Sugar beets merely store up sunshine and rain, and where these sugar containers are returned to the soil in the form of pulp fed to cattle, no fertility has been taken away.

By selling sugar and a number of other crops, the farmer is disposing of nothing but sunshine and rain. Mr. Allen, in his talk here, is expected to show how agricultural prosperity can be secured by fostering the production of food products that come from inexhaustible materials, rather than from the exhaustible mineral matter in the soil.

AMBULANCE SERVICE.

Mrs. Edith Willis of East Franklin street, was taken to Union station, Columbus, Wednesday night in Mader & Ebert's invalid car and put aboard a sleeper on the Big Four railroad. Accompanied by Dr. Lloyd Jones she will leave for Cleveland this morning and go to the Cleveland Clinic hospital for observation and probably an operation for tumor on the brain.

Blind Obedience.

"I have often wondered," remarked Mrs. Rogers, "how a horse feels. Now, don't interrupt with some silly remark—I am in earnest! A horse hasn't any idea what is going to happen to him when he is harnessed. He doesn't know how far he is going or what he is going for. To be driven hither and thither, blindly, seemingly, without purpose, with no idea of what it's all about or when it will be over—how must the poor creature feel—what must he think about it all?" "I suppose, said Mr. Rogers, wearily, "that he must feel just as I do when you take me on a shopping expedition with you!"

Theophile Gautier.
Gautier was a great genius in his own way, and for 40 years was one of the interesting and conspicuous figures of the literary world. His particular claim to fame lies in his unique gifts as a poet, represented by his masterpiece, "Emaux et Camees," a small collection of poems distinguished by their daintiness. "I am one for whom the visible world exists," is one of Gautier's celebrated sayings, and he treated his soulless images employed with a vocabulary famed for its rich resources, and a style remarkable for its faultlessness. The lily family is noted for beauty of flowers, including the tulips, the hyacinths, the dog-tooth violets, the Mariposa lilies, the day lilies and, of course, the true lilies. Only about 50 kinds are known to flower growers and of these only about 25 are well known.—Detroit News.

She has not been seen since she left her rooming house here last Friday evening saying she was going to Hiram to spend the weekend with her sister and brother-in-law. Rev. and Mrs. D. C. Troxel.

Belief that she may have been waylaid and kidnapped is gaining credence here as authorities and friends seek to piece together the scattered ends of evidence.

United States District Attorney Bernstein at Cleveland has notified friends of the missing girl that he will send a corps of detectives to look into the case if any evidence is found that a federal law has been violated.

Local authorities are as far from a solution of the mystery as they were three days ago when the fact that Miss Britt was missing first became known.

TO POSE FOR BOBS.

Miss Alice Denman, formerly a resident of this city, has been chosen with five other girls to pose for bobs for girls and women.

Miss Denman has very beautiful black hair and wore it in the boyish shingle bob. Going into a beauty parlor of the place saw her and asked for one evening for a hair cut the to cut her hair. After finishing he complimented her on her hair and asked for her name and address and if she would pose for some pictures of a new bob he was going to introduce. Very much surprised Miss Denman accepted. She is also known as one of Marion's prettiest girls and very popular among the younger set.

Miss Denman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Denman of 451 Uncaffer avenue, Marion, O., and has a number of friends and relatives living here.

Why Londoners Rise Late.

There is one point in defense of London's dislike of early rising, writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle. It is largely a matter of geography, and Greenwich time has a real business value. It enables the Londoner in his working hours to be in touch with more than half the world on the same day. When he gets down to his office in the city at 10 a. m. the business man has the afternoon prices from Bombay or even from Peking, on the one hand, and before he returns home for dinner he has learned the morning news of the American markets. The New Yorker has to rise early, for even when he opens 'change at 8 a. m. it is already afternoon in London.

An Eye for a Tooth.

In a certain part of our African dominions is a doctor who acts as understudy to the magistrate. Recently each was conscious of having transgressed by riding a bicycle without a light. They decided that the majesty of the law would best be vindicated by each appearing before the other. The magistrate, taking precedence, first tried the doctor and fined him five rupees. Then the doctor tried the magistrate and fined him 100. The reason he gave for his severity was that the offense was becoming far too common.—London Morning Post.

A RARE TREAT

Was the Sight Mr. Stevenson Enjoyed When He Saw a North of Ireland Irishman Shake the Hand of a Native of the South of Ireland.

The above statement was made by H. G. Stevenson speaking to the Business and Professional Women's Club at their regular meeting in the room over the Citizens' Telephone Company last evening. His subject was one in which he is particularly interested—The Rotary Club.

It is a subject that is of particular interest to most of the citizens of Circleville who are not Rotary Club members, unless they have had the pleasure of listening to a similar talk by one of the club members. This is an ever reaching movement good fellowship as Mr. Stevenson so ably expressed it and told how it had originated in Chicago, some years ago, and how in such a short time it has spread to nearly every part of the world. The happening stated at the top of this article took place at a convention, of world Rotarians held in St. Louis in 1922 at which Mr. Stevenson and Mr. R. L. Brehmer were present. Mr. Stevenson can appreciate this sight far more than some of us can as his forefathers were from the "Bloody Far Down" as the North of Ireland is described by an Irishman who originates from a county a distance removed from Belfast. The talk was interesting, instructive and very entertaining, and as Mr. Stevenson put it, if it wasn't for Rotary he would never have been able to stand before an audience, especially an audience of women, and give a talk, which is one thing that he has to thank Rotary for.

AMUSEMENTS

His only adventures had been those in books; his loves were the heroines of the printed page; his daily dissatisfactions were one after dinner pipe and a glass of sweet cider; his work no more exciting than writing book reviews and covering highbrow lectures for a newspaper. Then, one day, he amazed all who knew him, and especially himself, by running off with another man's wife!

Gladstone Smith was this man's name and he is the hero of "Dynamite Smith," portrayed by Charles Ray in the Pathe picture produced by Thomas H. Ince and showing tonight at the Met theater. It is a powerful and dramatic story of a young man who, illly equipped for the ruthless battle of life, suddenly finds his character put to severe tests. "Dynamite Smith" was written by the screen's master author, C. Gardner Sullivan. He wrote many of Ray's greatest successes. Ralph Ince directed. The cast includes Bessie Love, Jacqueline Logan, Wallace Berry and Lydia Knott.

Cats Tell the Time of Day.

In various parts of Turkey the watch and the clock are extremely rare, but the natives have an exceedingly ingenious way of approximating the time and some of them hit it with considerable accuracy. They locate two cardinal points of the compass and then, folding their hands together in such a manner that the forefingers point upward and in opposite directions, they observe the shadow cast. In the morning or the evening at certain known hours one finger or the other will point directly at the sun. A comparison of the two shadows will determine the hours between. Another system followed in Turkey and some other countries of the Orient is to observe the eyes of a cat. Early in the morning and evening the pupils are round. At 9 and 3 o'clock they are oval and at noon they consist of a narrow slit.

Chicago*

The memorial to Lincoln designed by Saint Gaudens and erected in Chicago is one of the most remarkable character studies in stone ever designed. The rugged simplicity of the monument, combined with the faithful portraiture of the statue, seems to breathe the spirit of the Great Man.

The MODERN MONUMENT builders should give you the same results. I can refer you to many memorials erected by me in the past 27 years of my business here. Call at show room. No agents to annoy you.

To Save a Soul Was Sandy's Idea

By JOHN PALMER
(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"WHO might you be?"

Sandy McGregor stood in the doorway of his shack, looking keenly down at the trembling boy within. Tall, grizzled, the epitome of strength was Sandy, the occupant of the lonely shack in the desert, twenty miles from Sunrise.

For two years he had been doggedly washing gold from the stream, always in hope of the great strike which he had never made.

Every one in Sunrise respected the gaunt, God-fearing old Scotchman, whose word was his bond.

Sandy looked at the boy. "Ye be Alex Smith?"

"Yes, I'm Alex Smith," faltered the other. "You know about me. I shot and killed John Templeton. He cheated me out of my wages and discharged me from his livery stable."

"Aye, I know about that crime," answered Sandy.

"I didn't mean to shoot him. I'd been trying out a gun and I lost my head. I pulled it and fired. He fell dead. I've been hiding for a week. Won't you protect me till the posse thinks I've got away?"

"I'll protect ye," answered Sandy.

He let the boy bunk in his cabin, and took him into the hills with him the next day, where he would be safe from visitors. He made him up a bunk in the little shack he had erected in the gully. No one would come that way.

Days passed. Alex worked with a will for his employer. At the end of a week he went to him.

"I guess the posse's given up the job," he said. "I'd better be hiking."

"Whaur d'you think of going?" asked Sandy.

"Over the hills. I can strike the railroad in four days, hop a freight and—"

"And live all your days with the charge of murder hanging over ye, a hunted fugitive?" asked Sandy. "Man, go down on your knees and ask Him to give ye the strength to go back and take your medicine!"

"Back to Sunrise?" whimpered Alex. "You—you're not going to give me up?"

"I'm not going to give ye up, but I want ye to give yersel' up, Alex. A man reaps whaur he sows. 'Tis the law. Give yersel' up and trust to His mercies."

"I daren't," whimpered the boy.

"They'll hang me."

"On yer knees!" said Sandy.

He knelt beside him. "O Lord," he prayed, "as thou hast given strength to the desert and the everlasting hills, give strength now to this thy servant that he may do what is right and surrender himself to the sheriff."

Then ensued a dogged battle between the old man and the boy. For two days they fought it out together.

"If you go, you'll have yer life and freedom," said Sandy. "But ye'll live yer life knowing you've committed the sin of murder. Ye'll never know that peace of the soul that comes from well doing. Give yersel' up and trust in Him."

In the middle of the third night Alex slipped quietly from his bunk, gathered his few things together, and crept out of the hut. He glanced fearfully at big Sandy as he passed his bed. He did not see that the big Scot was observing him through his half-closed lids.

When he was gone, Sandy went down on his knees and prayed that strength might be given to the lad. He prayed till morning—for Alex, for himself, and for the world.

When he returned from work that night Alex was in the hut.

"I—I've come back," faltered the lad. "I—I thought I could get away with it, but it was as if a voice was whispering in my ear, telling me to return. I'm ready to start for Sunrise in the morning."

"Glory be!" said big Sandy.

He clapped his hand on Alex's shoulder. "There'll be no need for you to start for Sunrise, son," he said. He drew a folded newspaper from his pocket and handed it to him. Alex read with terror and amazement the story of his crime.

The bullet had glanced off one of Templeton's ribs, inflicting only a trivial wound. After a perfunctory search the posse had returned.

"You—knew?" gasped Alex. "Why did you—?"

"To save your soul, laddie!" answered big Sandy. "Laddie, down on yer knees!"

New Universal Language

An employee of the State department has evolved a universal tongue known as "Euphony." Knowing 30 languages, he has borrowed their advantages and rejected their faults in producing a simple fundamental construction based on 15,000 root words. For every meaning or thought there is a particular word. He explains: "Euphony is something like mathematics. Take the word 'ole' for 'eye,' 'zu' meaning 'blue' and 'fra' from German, meaning 'woman.' Combine them thus, 'frazola,' dropping the 'u' in 'zu' for euphony, and you have a woman blue of eye, or a blue-eyed woman. Euphony can be expanded and glorified for literature or contracted and simplified for commerce, he claims.

Steps in Discoveries

One year after Michael Faraday had discovered benzine came the discovery of aniline, which is today made in enormous quantities from benzine; in 1855 a German chemist named Runge discovered that aniline treated with chloride of lime produced a beautiful blue color, but it was not until 1856 that an English chemist, Sir William Henry Perkin, discovered aniline purple and so founded the immense color industry of today.

Pretty Legend of Diamond

Diamonds are the favored stones for betrothal rings, says tradition, because the man who discovered the art of cutting and polishing the diamond made a fortune and was thus enabled to wed the maiden of his choice. The man was Louis de Berquem, a native of Flanders, who was clerk to a jeweler of Bruges in 1470, and who, so the story goes, had revealed to him in a dream how the stones might be beautified by cutting.

A Tragic Comedy

The proud possessor of a palatial home was much importuned by a movie company to let them use it for a few takes. One day he assented, left for his office as usual, and in due time returned. He found a bath tub on the lawn, half the windows broken, and the front door in splinters. "I didn't know it was to be a comedy," remarked the owner as he surveyed the scene.

American Post Office

The beginning of the American post office proper was in February, 1691. From 1707 to the year before the Revolutionary war the general post office in London controlled the postal service in America. The period of activity in the establishment of postal facilities began when Benjamin Franklin was appointed postmaster at Philadelphia in 1737.

Perfect Continuity

A continuum is a total that is continuous and uninterrupted; that which has perfect continuity, as the continuum of space. A universal continuum appears in space where progression is uninterrupted in all directions. Time is a one dimensional continuum capable of geometrical representation by a line.

"Crossing the Rubicon"

Caesar's crossing of the Rubicon was significant because a proconsul could not legally cross this frontier at the head of his troops. His act was, therefore, a virtual declaration of war. Thus "to cross the Rubicon" has come to mean the taking of an irrevocable step.

The Paper as a Salesman

"Don't sit behind the steering wheel waiting for business to turn up," says the Griffin (Ga.) News. "Crank up. Get in the game. Use the columns of your local newspaper as an additional salesman and turn that stock before it gets rusty."

Early Discrimination

The same shop assistant served a customer with two pieces of cheese, one for herself and one for a friend, and remarked: "You'll know the difference when you get home, as they are both the same."—London Tit-Bits.

Father of Greek Music

Terpander, the father of Greek music, was celebrated among his contemporaries of the Seventh century B. C. for his development of the lyre and for his many victories at the Pythian contests in honor of Apollo.

Spanish Heroine

Augustina, the maid of Saragossa, is celebrated in Spanish history for the heroism she displayed during the siege of her native city by the French from June to August, 1808, and from December, 1808, to February, 1809.

Mexico's "Sad Night"

The "Sad Night" is the name given to the night of June 20, 1520, when the Spanish conquerors were suddenly attacked by the Mexicans, and suffered heavy loss to their small force and to their Indian allies.

Wigs Long Worn

Wigs date back 100,000 years, if the curious carving of a prehistoric woman's head covered in ivory, found by M. Plette in a cave in the Landes, may be interpreted as a wig of the Stone age.

Hardly Conservative

Though loaded shotguns have been dragged through the fence successfully at times, the custom would not be recommended by insurance companies.—Toledo Blade.

Not Natural Cleavage

The parting of a husband and wife is like the cleaving of a heart; one half will flutter here, one there.—Tennyson.

Real Success

A successful store is one that sells goods that do not come back, to customers who do.—The Progressive Grocer.

Wealth's Great Power

Wealth may be an excellent thing for it means power, it means leisure. It means liberty.—Yowell.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP
(Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—Rom. 13:1-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—Rom. 13:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Love One Another.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Rewards of Obedience.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Obeying the law.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Obeying and Enforcing the Law.

It is highly important that the disciple of Christ should realize that he is a citizen as well as a Christian. Intelligent Christians will show loyalty to the state as well as to the church. In fact, the better the Christian, the better the state. The failure to recognize this truth has brought Christianity into disrepute in many quarters.

I. The Christian's Obligation to the State (vv. 1-7).

1. Obedience to the Rulers (vv. 1-4). This obligation is upon all Christians. The reason this obligation is universal is that civil government is ordained of God and the rulers are His representatives. It is God's purpose that man should live under authority. It is His purpose because man's highest good demands it. To refuse obedience to civil authority is to resist God. This of course does not mean that a Christian at the behest of the state should do that which is morally wrong, just as parental authority does not imply that the child is under obligation to do that which is morally wrong at the command of parents, but it does demand submission as the law of the believer's life. The Christian frequently has need to call upon the rulers for help and personal protection (Acts 18:12-17; 19:35-41; 22:25).

2. The Spirit of Such Obedience (vv. 5). It is to be conscientious, that is, it is to be regarded, not merely as serving a good purpose, but morally right.

3. The Nature of This Obedience (vv. 6-7).

(1) Payment of personal and property taxes. The citizens who enjoy the benefits of government are morally bound to support it.

(2) Payment of duties upon merchandise and license fees. The business exchange between nations must be regulated. For such regulations expenses incur for which benefits the citizens should pay.

(3) Veneration for magistrates—"fear to whom fear." Those who fear God should venerate His representatives, that is, civil rulers.

(4) The proper attitude—"honor to whom honor." This means that civil servants, officers of the law, should be honored because of the ministry they perform.

II. The Christian's Obligation to His Fellow Citizens (vv. 8-10).

This is summed up in the word "love." Love is a perpetual obligation. Paying of debts is obligatory upon all. Christians are judged by their promptness in paying debts. The only debt that is right to owe is that of love. Although we give love to the full each day, each succeeding day calls for it over again. Love works no ill to one's neighbor. This love forbids defrauding in matters of property; it forbids going into debt where there is no reasonable certainty of being able to meet the obligation; it forbids defrauding in matters of moral purity. Where there is real love, adultery cannot be committed, for it is a crime against one's neighbor. Love forbids murder. It forbids stealing. It forbids coveting. It forbids working ill to one's neighbor.

III. The Grand Incentive of the Christian's Life (vv. 11-14).

This is the coming of the Lord. The supreme call is to the Christian to wake out of sleep. The picture here presented is of one asleep when the sun is high in the heavens. Life's duties can only be properly executed when one is awake. The one going through life without thinking of eternity is asleep. Each day is bringing us nearer to the eternal goal and since that day is at hand, we should

1. Cast Off the Works of Darkness (v. 12). The works of darkness are the sins of the flesh such as dishonest dealing in business, rioting and drunkenness.

2. Put on the Armor of Light (vv. 12-13). With this armor on the Christian will (1) walk honestly, (2) not in rioting and drunkenness, (3) not in chambering and wantonness, (4) not in strife, (5) not in envying.

3. Put on the Lord Jesus Christ (v. 14). The only way to be free from the works of darkness is to put on Christ.

Fatal Prosperity

Often our trials act as a thorn-bedge to keep us in the good pasture; but our prosperity is a gap through which we go astray.—Presbyterian Record.

Our Love of God

Our love of God would be idolatry if we did not believe in His love for us—His responsive love.

His Written Word

God never leads us to do anything that is contrary to His written Word.

MRS. J. P. DONOHUE

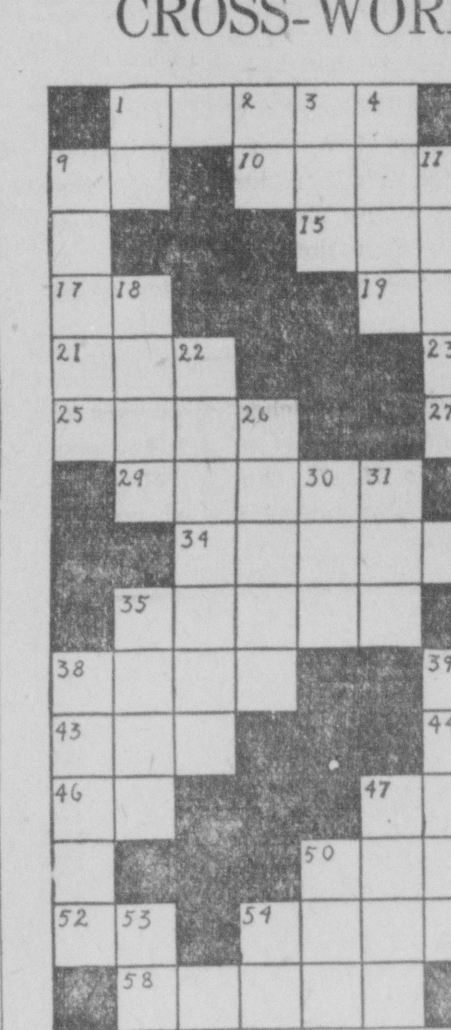

Mrs. James P. Donohue, daughter of the late F. W. Woolworth, who pays more taxes than any other woman in the country. Her personal assessment is a million dollars.

Close Figuring.

"Some of my wife's kinfolks are the figgerin'est set on earth," admitted Mr. Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "Most every winter three or four of my wife's sisters drop in for a nice long visit, bringing a batch of their children to turn loose on us. Then after a while the women hit the grit for home and leave four or eight apiece of their children behind. Of course, we know they're not all our kids. We've got only fourteen. But it ain't until the weather gets warm enough in the spring for us to wash 'em all that we find out for certain which are our'n and which were wished on us to feed till the season opens."—Kansas City Star.

Troubles of Church Ushers.

"Did you ever notice how some people treat church ushers who try to be nice to them?" asked W. A. Currie. "Supposing you were a church usher politely conducting a person to a seat and looked back to find that said person had already sat down, how would you feel? I suppose the average man, unless he was well supplied with a large amount of Christian forbearance, as most church ushers are, would thereafter allow such a lady to find her seat without his assistance. Perhaps few free workers are treated with the discourtesy shown the average church usher. Some of these days all the preachers ought to set aside a special day on which to preach a sermon on proper church courtesy."—Birmingham News.

POTATO GROWERS WARNING

Eleven Bushels an Acre Was Yield in 1924 in This Country.

The average potato yield over the entire United States last year was 11 bushels an acre above the highest average yield ever recorded, analysis of the crop reports now shows.

The low potato prices of this winter have been due to an increase in yield rather than an increase in acreage, says C. R. Arnold, rural economist at the Ohio State university. He warns potato growers not to be governed by the abnormal conditions which obtained last summer.

"The large supply and consequent low price of potatoes this winter is due to an increased yield rather than an increased acreage," explains Mr. Arnold. "The average yield in the United States last year was 124 bushels or 25 bushels above the previous 10 year average and 11 bushels above the highest yield ever recorded in the United States."

"Had there been an average normal yield of 99 bushels an acre last year the production per capita would have been considerably below the average. The acreage last year was four per cent less than the year before and 15 per cent below the large acreage of 1922."

"A decreased acreage of potatoes usually follows a year of low prices. It must be remembered, however, that altho prices were low this year, the acreage was also low."

"It is doubtful if weather conditions will give the potato grower last year's conditions for many years in succession. For that reason potato growers should consider normal rather than last year's production and not allow their operations to be influenced too much by the present price of potatoes."

How Japanese Bury Dead

In Japan a corpse, placed in a bent position, is encased in a porcelain or an earthenware coffin having the shape and appearance of a jug which is usually as tall as the dead. In the coffin, buried with the body, are some of the possessions the deceased held dear in life. The coffin, instead of being laid lengthwise in the ground, assumes a standing position. Its top is closed by a conical cover of the same material.

No Depilatories Then

The women of the Imperial city of Rome once had a morbid ambition to raise beards like their brothers and husbands. They used to shave their chins and smear unguents over them. It appears, however, that the men of Rome did not favor this feminine eccentricity, for Cicero mentions a law that was passed to prevent women wearing beards.

Freak Lightning

A freak bolt of lightning struck the upraised shovel of a workman at Salem, Ohio, split into three parts and jumped to three different houses. In one house it stunned six-months-old twins. Weather boarding and plaster were torn from the second house. The third house was a bungalow, just completed, which was damaged slightly. The workman was uninjured.

Bulldogs Get Name Rightly

In the old days butchers used certain ferocious and tenacious dogs to catch and hold bulls ready for slaughter. Hence the name "bulldog," which has been handed down. These dogs could with apparent ease seize and hold a large animal by the nose, and either hold him perfectly still or draw his head to one side, at the order of his master.

Royal Child Bride

The smallest wedding ring known was that made for Mary, oldest daughter of Henry VIII, when, at the age of two years, she was married to the dauphin of France, son of Francis I. The wee bridegroom was only eight months old. Cardinal Wolsey handed the ring and said mass at that marriage of state.—Kansas City Times.

Slitting Tongue of Crow

There is no truth to the notion that a crow can be made to talk like a parrot if the tongue is slit. It is a cruel practice which has no justification whatever. Crows sometimes learn to speak almost as well as parrots, but it is not made possible by slitting their tongues.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Rattlesnake's Strike

The distance a rattlesnake can strike is never greater than the length of the snake. The reptile has no power of jumping in the air and away from the ground. When it strikes it darts the fore part of its body, which was retracted in several bends, forward in a straight line.

Theatrical "Green Rooms"

"Stage-glare" caused by the artificial lighting of a theater affects the eyes of actors and actresses. The walls of the waiting room used by them during the intervals of a play were colored green because this is a good antidote for the affection of the eyes. Hence the name.

Differences in Two Canals

There are great physical differences between the world's two great commercial canals. The Suez and the Panama canals both divide continents, but the Suez is a sea-level waterway, without sluices or locks. The cost of the Suez was about $127,000,000.
